

Wisconsin Low Lake Level

Attorney General W. J. Morgan Wants to Sue State of Illinois in Supreme Court.

BIG LOSS TO THIS STATE

Chicago Drainage Canal Lowers Lake Level and Forces Harbor Dredging.

By United Press Leased Wire
Madison.—The state of Wisconsin and Illinois will be involved in a supreme court suit over the Chicago drainage canal if an official request from State Attorney General William J. Morgan to the Wisconsin legislature Tuesday is favorably acted upon.
Lowering the level of Lake Michigan costs the state of Wisconsin millions of dollars to dredge out her harbors, and this lowering is ascribed by the state authorities to the drainage canal.

The drainage canal is non-navigable,
and Wisconsin wants it opened for traffic.

The state of Wisconsin through Morgan wants to ask the highest federal court for an injunction to prevent Illinois from obstructing water navigation between Lake Michigan and the Mississippi river. If the action goes through Chicago must either open the drainage canal to navigation or get some other way to dispose of her sewage.

Wisconsin has a right to relief in the following three matters, according to Morgan's letter to the two houses
of the legislature:

1—"Lowering Lake Michigan by the Chicago drainage canal.

This non-navigable stream draws 250,000 cubic feet of water per minute from Lake Michigan for the purpose of diluting Chicago's sewage.

2—"The state of Illinois should be forced to open to free waterway traffic
the proposed state owned Illinois waterway from Lockport to a point near La Salle. Water from Lake Michigan is to be used in this project."

3—"Elaborate plans are being made by the city of Chicago to fill in a large section of its lake front for the benefit of the Illinois Central railway and the Chicago South Park system.

Morgan's proposed suit before the United States supreme court will contest the right of the state of Illinois and the city of Chicago to undertake any of these projects.

PULLMAN CO. MUST DEAL WITH UNIONS

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago.—Railroad unions won a smashing victory before the United States railroad labor board Tuesday
when it was ruled that the Pullman Car company must deal with accredited representatives of rail unions.

The board ruled that a wage reduction which was accepted by representatives of an organization of employees formed by the company was invalid.

The Pullman company, employing 10,000 men, is the only railroad industry that has organized a "company union."

This union has been fought by the railroad employees affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and the railroad brotherhoods.

The case arose when members of the "company union" agreed to accept a 12 per cent reduction last winter. Investigation by the board showed, it was announced, that the majority of the employees belonged to the accredited unions and therefore negotiations by the company did not count.

Fearing a demonstration from Irish chances and will bar his friends and enemies alike.

A number of prominent persons who endorse the admiral's speech will go down the bay to greet him in a chartered steamer. Sinn Fein sympathizers plan to greet Sims outside the pier with a big reception committee bearing placards on which was in-

Americans who died in the world war, captioned "1,000 jackasses."

DELINQUENT GIRLS OFFER BIG PROBLEM

Girls "Go Bad" Younger Than
They Did Years Ago,
Policewoman Says.

By United Press Leased Wire
Milwaukee.—Girls go wrong younger than they did.
Mrs. Muna C. Van Winkle, Washington, D. C., president of the International Association of Police Women, said this was one of the problems confronting the convention of police women beginning here Tuesday in connection with the national conference of social work.

"Girls become offenders as early as twelve," Mrs. Van Winkle said.
"They are usually sex offenders. Delinquent girls are not confined to any class or section. They are recruited from the rich as well as the poor."

"We need a back to the home movement," Mrs. Van Winkle who is a lieutenant of the Metropolitan police of Washington, said.
"Mothers have lost control over their children. Fathers are too busy making money. There is all together too much dependence placed on the state and the school to bring up children."

"Mothers are going society mad,"
Mrs. Van Winkle said.

"They think only of the shallow things of life. They become experts in all sorts of fool things but they neglect the most important thing—bringing up children."

Police women are helping to keep girls straight, Mrs. Van Winkle said.
"Girls are more difficult to deal with than boys. Boys are simply naughty.
Girls are bad," she added.

Many jobs are open for women in police work, Mrs. Van Winkle said.
The job requires "brain not brawn."
American cities have recognized the value she said, of women police officers in doing prevention work. The demand for trained women is now greater than the supply.

SAYS ZIEGLER HAD THREATENED SLAYER

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago.—Rosamond Dove Tuesday testified that Herbert F. Ziegler, for whom murder Mrs. Corn Orlin was being tried, threatened to kill the defendant. Mrs. Dove was sprung by the defense as a surprise
witness and told of meeting Mrs.
Orlin on a lonely road last March.

"I was a member of an auto party," she said.
"We saw the defendant walking along the road. She was crying and her face bruised. She pleaded for us to take her back to town."

"Ziegler's car overtook us and after beating up one of the men in our party he threatened to kill Mrs.
Orlin if she did not return with him."

Jack Clifford, brother of Mrs. Orlin, again took the stand. He declared that Ziegler lived in Mrs. Orlin's apartment.

CREPE HANGERS PUT BRAKES ON U. S. BUSINESS

Pessimistic Talk Has Tendency to Slow Up Industrial Readjustment.

BANKERS ARE SAVIOURS

Government Experts Are Confident of Return to Normalcy in Few Months.

Washington.—The business situation throughout the country presents to government eyes certain good and bad aspects. The good consists of a turn for the better in many lines which six months ago were harder hit and the bad arises out of the fact that certain industries which didn't feel the wave of depression last winter now are beginning to sag.
The situation is not now and never had been uniform. No two industries have been hit in exactly the same way and at the same moment. This explains the almost continuous flow of pessimistic talk whose undercurrent has been sensed here ever since last December. The only danger in the talk itself is that certain industries, which are on a sound basis, may be influenced to curtail their activities simply because of a fear that the business depression makes promotion and expansion inadvisable
as a matter of principle.

Therefore officials here are inclined to sound a warning against the acceptance of pessimistic statements for anything more than a reflection of the particular industry or business about which the pessimist happens to be informed. Gov. Harding of the federal reserve board has insisted in his recent speeches that if the pessimist had done more talking last October when retrenchment was being urged by the government he would have been a valuable factor in the readjustment. But much of the pessimism is beginning to be circulated just at the time when many industries are on the upward swing and when their progress will be made painfully slower by the continuous murmuring about bad times ahead.

Like Marching Column

The nearest idea of the business readjustment which this country has experienced since the war is given by one man who uses the smile of a marching column of troops to illustrate the march of the industries themselves. The column has been making a right wheel turn.
The troops nearest the center move slowly and mark time. These are the industries like the woolen and textile business which were hardest hit last winter and then marked time while they adjusted their labor costs, arranged their loans in bank, wrote off their losses, and then slowly began to move again. Most of the trades which suffered in December and January are gradually coming back—not rapidly of course, but with sufficient progress to make this pes-simist's prediction of "many years of bad times" entirely unwarranted. It has been a matter of months and not years.

Just now the oil and steel businesses are at the edge of the marching column with a long distance to go to make the complete turn. Prediction as to when the steel business will have made the turn and gotten back into line is a matter of personal opinion in Washington. There is, however, an inclination to expect the steel industry to cut wages

LYDD GEORGE REFERS TO TREATY WITH JAPAN

By United Press Leased Wire
London.—Premiers of the British empire Tuesday began consultation on policies affecting the welfare of all their dominions.

While Premier Lloyd George was believed to have struck the keynote in his address Monday, the premiers awaited further reports from British officials touching on colonial affairs.
The visiting officials showed great interest in Lloyd George's statements, especially those touching on the Japanese alliance and the promise to consider any disarmament proposal made by the United States.

The statement was believed to have a great bearing on the Anglo-Japanese treaty which expires shortly. The premier declared, however, that sea-power is the basis of Britain's life and that it cannot be sacrificed entirely.

CAN'T FIND REAL CAUSE OF DIVORCE

Courts Never Hear How Friction Is Started, Jurist Says
in Milwaukee.

By United Press Leased Wire
Milwaukee.—There is no answer to the cause of divorce in this country, Judge Charles W. Hoffman, famous domestic court relations jurist of Cincinnati, said Tuesday in an address to the National Probation association in session here.

"It is impossible to tell the causes from what is revealed in the divorce courts," Judge Hoffman said.

"The truth, the real truth, the actual cause of dissensions and friction that bring about the disruption of the home never appear in the evidence."

Personal investigation at the home is the treatment suggested by Judge Hoffman as a cure for the divorce evil rather than any effort directed through the divorce courts.

Judge Raymond MacNeale Philadelphia, speaking of the reclamation of human derelicts, said:
"It is ridiculous to attempt to influence the moral sense of people who are suffering from physical torments of disease acquired in low life."

Philadelphia, he said, was spending $1,000,000 annually in experimental work dealing with crime and commercialized vice. The misdemeanants court through which the criminals and derelicts pass will send the diseased to the hospitals and laboratories for treatment.

"Our first care is to cure them of the ills which are almost always found to be cause of crime," Judge MacNeale said.

Jobless Men Flee From Big Cities To Farm Jobs

By United Press Leased Wire
New York.—Jobless young America is going back to the farm.

The fighting Yank who left the plow to go to war and then remained in the big cities after he had returned, has found starvation wages and rainy nights on park benches too much.

Mrs. Monica Barry Walsh, director of the American land service, said
two hundred men boarded trains leaving New York Tuesday to go back to the country. Seven hundred and forty-eight went last week.
Eleven hundred and thirty went the week before—and still there are 468, 000 men out of work in New York.

"If we just had the money to handle these boys we could clear the park benches in a few months,"
Mrs. Walsh told the United Press.

"Right here is the solution of America's industrial problem. All the former service men, out of jobs,
seem to have come to the big city

200 LIVES LOST IN JAPANESE FLOODS

Thousands of Homes Are Washed Into Sea by Rapidly Rising Water.

Tokio.—Terrific floods are sweeping large areas of Japan. The death list Tuesday approached 200.

Entire villages were submerged under 15 feet of water in the Hita district. At Kyushu more than six hundred houses were washed away.

Heavy rains caused the floods. The district of Kyushu was inundated so quickly that thousands had narrow escapes. At least 180 persons were drowned there.

The flood quickly swept hundreds of lightly constructed dwelling houses into the torrent where they collapsed and were carried out to sea in a mass of debris.

Bridges were torn out and swept away.

In the Hita district the waters spread more slowly, filling the streets of many villages some of them to a depth of 15 feet. Twenty-three villages were known to be under water,
their inhabitants taking to boats,
some living precariously in trees and others clinging to roofs of cottages which threatened momentarily to leave their foundations.

New Fukuoka, a city of almost 100,000 persons, great damage was done.

NEW PROHIBITION BILL IS DOOMED

Washington.—The house rules com-

won't," he told the house in response to an attack made on the committee's action in delaying it to give representatives of the chemical and commercial alcohol companies a chance

YOUTH CHALLENGES AGE IN ELECTION OF LABOR LEADER

Conservatives Back Up Gompers While Fighters Work for Lewis.

By United Press Leased Wire
Denver, Colo.—History flowed toward the mould of repetition Tuesday as the new order challenged the old in organized labor.

Samuel Gompers, who directed the destinies of the American Federation of Labor for 33 years, faced Tuesday his second serious challenge for leadership at conventions in Denver.

In 1894 Gompers was defeated for president of the federation at a convention in Denver by John McBride, a mine worker.

In the contest for the office Tuesday—the only time since the 1894 defeat that Gompers' position as head of the labor movement has been seriously threatened—his opponent is a coal miner—John E. Lewis.

During the time he headed the trade union movement Gompers built up a powerful organization. He was a slow careful leader. His actions were never striking, but with cautiousness and sureness, he reached out to gain objectives near at hand.

Lewis came to the front in the labor union movement during the coal miners' strike of 1919. Driving and fighting his way ahead, he rode rough shod over the determined opposition of the federal government to prevent the strike. The settlement gave to miners the increased wages which Lewis had sought.

The support which each of these two leaders draws from the convention delegates is in conformity with their methods of working.

The conservative, slow moving, old representations are standing back of Gompers. Lewis has drawn the support of the younger, fighting delegations such as the machinists, the carpenters and the miners.

As the campaign progressed Tuesday the tensions of the situation grew. Quarrels in hotel lobbies were frequent. Lewis personally invaded the headquarters of the Gompers supporters. He went to the Albany hotel, and with several of his closest backers, button holed the leaders of delegations backing Gompers.

AIRPLANE BOMBS SINK GERMAN SUB

By United Press Leased Wire
On board U. S. S. Henderson, off
Hampton Roads, Va.—The former German U-boat No. 117 was sunk by naval planes sixty miles off Hampton Roads Tuesday.

The submarine sank after two air attacks, in which 12 bombs were dropped. Three bombs were dropped in the first attack, made by three navy machines at 10:23. One direct hit was made. At 10:32 three planes again went to the attack and dropped nine bombs. One bomb hit the submarine just off of the conning tower and the others dropped near her.

Six minutes after the bomb exploded on the submarine the vessel listed and one minute later the conning tower disappeared.

Lieut. Col. C. Calver, flying an army plane and accompanied by an observer, crashed near the U. S. S.
Henderson stationed a considerable distance from the target. Both men were picked from the water by a naval plane. Both escaped injury.

They say Clarence is "doing as well as could be expected."

Chicago.—Chicago's first "summer" wedding ended in a riot. Louis Shed-wedding of his sister.

Louis made a coin vanish and the perspiring guests sat unmoved.

The artistic hand of Louis moved.
Behold a rabbit. More quiet.
"I want an apple for another trick,"

Wants To Force Rich To Give Up Liquor Stocks

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington.—Congress should make the rich disgorge their huge private stock of liquor, Representative Pou, North Carolina, said Tuesday.

Amendment of the prohibition enforcement in this would make them operative on rich and poor alike, according to Pou, who is ranking Democrat on the house rules committee, which now has the Volstead supplemental prohibition bill under consideration.

"If we are to have prohibition why not make it effect all alike," said Pou.
"One of the main causes of dissasfaction as the result of national prohibition is that the rich men with his well stocked cellar, is immune from the law while if some poor devil is caught with a bottle of moonshine in his possession he goes to jail. There should be liquor for none or liquor for all."

The rich liquor drinker can be hit Pou said, by making mere possession of intoxicants a crime and he is considering framing a bill to this effect.

USES PICTURES TO SHOW CITY'S NEEDS

City Planning Message to Reach Every Citizen of Appleton.

Appleton has many attractions, advantages and natural beauties, but there are some things that need remedying. Many of these will be shown by Leonard Smith, community planner of the University of Wisconsin, in his series of talks and conferences to be conducted in public school buildings beginning at 8 o'clock Friday evening. He hopes to reach every Appleton citizen through the meetings held in each part of the city.

Most people know something about city planning, Mr. Smith believes, but few have taken time enough to make a detailed study. The author there fore intends to give the public the benefit of his experience of 30 years in the study and planning of cities. He has been captivated by the beauty of Appleton and is enthusiastic to remove the few obstacles to making it one of the finest and most attractive communities in the United States.

To better illustrate his meaning Mr. Smith has surveyed most of the city from a planning standpoint and has taken photographs of points and features of which the city may be proud. He also has taken views of some of the eyesores, unused advantages and scenes that are objectionable or out of keeping with the best welfare of the people. He also has selected some of his best slides from a collection of 4,000 taken in cities over the world, and will use them to show the possibilities of community development.

These are some of the features of his talks to be given in each of five wards for the benefit of taxpayers and the citizens in general. No admission is to be charged. Each gathering will be conducted as a conference for exchange of ideas on Appleton betterment.

The schedule Mr. Smith will follow is: Friday evening, 8 o'clock, Washington school; Saturday, Third ward school; Monday, Fourth ward; Tuesday, June 28, First ward; Wednesday, June 29, Columbus school.

STUDY OF BIBLE IS AIM OF NEW SCHOOL

Plenty of Variety Is Offered Pupils Enrolled in Church Vacation School.

Directors and teachers in the Vacation church school are aiming to give its pupils a better knowledge of the Bible, according to Mrs. A. L. McMillan, director. They feel that in a daily period covering five weeks the children will learn more about the Bible than they could possibly learn in a much longer period of Sunday school meetings.

The Vacation church school is designed to be a continuation of the week-day Bible school which is to be a permanent feature of program of the Community Religious Education Council. When all of the plans are in operation, there will be a continuous Bible school all the year around.

The registration for the vacation school was 103 on Monday, the first day of the term. The group included 53 boys and 50 girls. The periods are very short, none being over 20 minutes in length in order to give the pupils plenty of variety.

Dramatization of Bible stories is to be one of the interesting features of the school. Along with the other memory work will be memorization of familiar hymns used in all the churches.

During the course, three educational films from Madison and three missionary films will be shown. Wednesday morning an illustrated stereopticon lecture on "Of Such is the Kingdom" will be given.

Outside speakers will be secured from time to time to talk during the assembly period. Habit talks and health talks are to be given by authorities on the subjects.

Articles made in the hand work period will undoubtedly be exhibited at the end of the course.

As an incentive to good behavior, the two children having the best record each day are allowed to be the flag bearers for the salute to the flag and the closing march.

NEARING MILLION IN CHURCH DRIVE

Another $50,000 has been added to the total of the United Catholic drive of Green Bay diocese, bringing the amount almost in sight of the million mark. Chairman Gustave Keller announces the total subscription to date as $87,705.25, with a number of parishes to hear from.

"We are after every parish, urging that the campaign be closed up and a final report made," said Mr. Keller. "There have been delays due to some of the team workers not being able to see all their prospects, but we hope to have a final report within a day or two. Appleton parishes are now preparing their final record."

DELEGATION GOING TO BIG CONFERENCE

Milwaukee to Entertain National Conference of Social Work This Week.

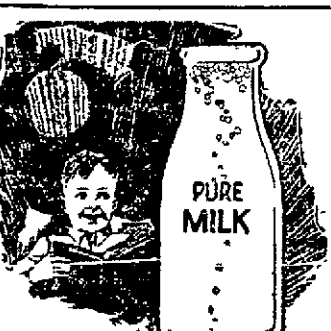

Appleton will be represented at the National Conference of Social work which opens in Milwaukee Wednesday by Mrs. B. W. Wells, Miss Clara Van Slyke and Mrs. Katherine Sullivan of the Outagamie Red Cross chapter, and by Miss Bertha Schultz, county nurse. Other civic workers and citizens plan to attend all or part of the sessions, although the number who have made reservations thus far is not large.

Judges, Red Cross workers, representatives of women's clubs, poor commissioners, commercial executives, police officials and many other social workers are flocking to the Cream City to attend the great gathering, which is being held in Wisconsin for the first time in 40 years. Oshkosh will be represented by about 30 people and Green Bay by a large delegation. A number of people plan to drive to Milwaukee by automobile.

A gathering that will attract many is the all-Wisconsin dinner to be given Friday at the City club. This was arranged by Edward D. Lynde, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work, who has extended an invitation to many Appleton people. Boat rides, picnics and visits to institutions have been planned for special groups. Private conference booths have been established for special consultations on specific social problems.

Nutsy of the meetings will be held in the cool and roomy auditorium building, with an attendance of more than 5,000. Among the speakers are Judge Een Lindsey, Denver juvenile court, Mary Anderson, chief of women's bureau, department of labor; Whiting Williams, of the steel mills; Martha Faulkner of Sleighton Farm for Girls.

AGED COUPLE WILL VISIT JERUSALEM

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Greenspon Leave on Pilgrimage to Palestine.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Greenspon, 1978 Morrison-st., left Tuesday morning on a six months' pilgrimage to Jerusalem. They will sail from New York on June 30 on the Fabre line steamer Asia and will go direct to Beirut, Syria, and will reach their destination July 20. Their tickets were secured through Henry Reuter's steamship agency.

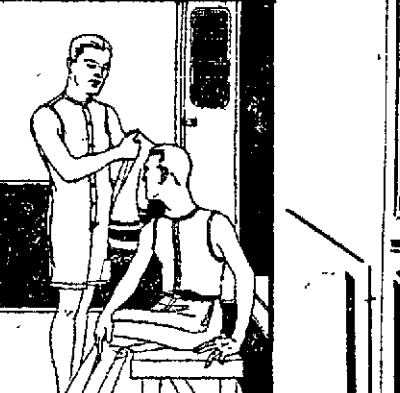

In securing their transportation Mr. Reuter discovered that only two direct trips to Beirut are made by vessels this season, one leaving New York on June 30 and the other on August 2. Beirut, however, can be reached by several indirect routes that require more time. Mr. and Mrs. Greenspon's former home was in Russia. They have no relatives in Jerusalem, but were anxious to make the pilgrimage before their age prevented them from doing so. Mr. Greenspon is 72 years old and his wife 75. They will spend a week was friends in New York before sail with friends in New York before sailing.

Mr. and Mrs. Greenspon do not expect to join any party on their long journey, neither do they intend to visit their former home in Russia. The port of Beirut is their transfer point from New York and they will make the remainder of the distance by train. They will travel as citizens of the United States and will enjoy all the privileges and protection afforded by the United States flag.

MODERN SYSTEM IS TO EDUCATE HAND AND HEAD

Dean Ford of Anglo-Chinese College Speaks to Trade School Graduates.

"The love that will give constant service" is the only solution of present problems of labor, Dean E. L. Ford of the Anglo-Chinese college of Foo Chow, China, told graduates of the Appleton vocational school in his commencement address Monday night.

"If you want to settle these problems of labor you will have to come back to the fundamentals of life," Mr. Ford said. "What do we want in life? What do we want to build into life? The first thing we need is work. Besides work we must have play. Most of all, we must have the love of a good will—the love that will give constant service."

Mr. Ford said that he had been much interested in watching the growth of vocational schools in this country while in educational work in

Careless Drivers Blamed For Majority of Wrecks

Police Department Determined to Enforce State Automobile Laws.

Here are a few of the things which Chief of Police George T. Prim has placed on the black list. He attributes the large number of automobile accidents to them.

Careless drivers.
Faulty brakes.
No lights.
One light.
No rear light.
Plain lenses.
Careless pedestrians.
Inexperienced drivers.

"Carelessness," said Chief Prim, "is the cause of most accidents. They can be attributed to nothing else. Automobile drivers keep their eyes everywhere but in front of their machines. They are either watching someone pass them or watching somebody on the sidewalk. About that time, they either bump somebody or somebody bumps them. My advice to drivers is 'Watch where you're driving.'"

"Casualties are not always the fault of the automobile driver. The pe-

"When the lights go out, stop driving. A car without lights not only endangers others using the street but it endangers your own life. One light is almost as bad as none. Especially if it is on the right side because drivers coming from the other direction naturally suppose that the one light is either on a motorcycle or on the rear side of an automobile. Consequently he doesn't turn out far enough and the crash comes."

"The law fully covers the matter of automobile lights and we intend to enforce it in Appleton. I see many machines that still carry plain lenses. There is no excuse for any driver not having proper dimmers. He doesn't have to spend $6 or $7 on patent dimmer lenses; why, all he needs is a little elbow grease and a little green paint. He can paint the upper half of the inside of the lens and he'll have the best dimmer it is possible to obtain."

Drivers Lack Experience
The chief said that accidents are frequently caused by inexperienced drivers who have not gained sufficient confidence to handle their machines properly in traffic. He advises such people to stay away from dangerous places until they have become skilled drivers.

"Another thing that some drivers are forgetting," said the chief, "is that the law requires every machine to bear one license plate in front and one in the rear. This is another matter which we intend to enforce. The state furnishes two plates for each car and they are required to be in their proper places."

The police department has found that most accidents in the city occur at a few dangerous corners. Drivers are urged to be extremely careful at the following places:

ASSESSMENT WORK IN CITIES DELAYED

Boards of review meeting next Monday, June 27 in cities in Outagamie county will probably be forced to adjourn until a later date because city assessors have not completed their work, according to J. A. Lonsdorf, assessor of incomes.

Township and village assessors, Mr. Lonsdorf believes, have completed their work and boards of review in these places will be prepared to act. In cities where it is necessary to postpone review of assessments, further notice will be given so that all those who have grievances may have a chance to appear before their boards.

Mr. Lonsdorf reminds all taxpayers that the board of review offers the only chance for adjustment of assessments which are thought to be unjust.

China. He said the Appleton vocational school building was the first building built for a vocational school in this country and congratulated Appleton for having such a school.

Educate Hand and Head

"Education for life has come to be recognized as the only proper type," the speaker said. "Head and hand must be educated together." He traced the evolution of educational methods in China, beginning by showing how the present Chinese characters in writing are nothing but a simple evolution of primitive picture symbols. The early methods of education were designed only for the training of the head and this, he admitted, was the conception that obtained in this country for many years.

"China has had one of the oldest educational systems of all history," Mr. Ford said. "It was established in the dim ages. It was working at much its present methods since and before the time of Confucius. The government did not establish or maintain a system of schools. The pupils were taught in private schools which were maintained by a wealthy man or by a group of wealthy men. The government had nothing to do with education except when the time for examinations came. Then the pupil presented himself to the government for examination to see if he came up to the standard."

Only Boys Educated

"The pupils were all boys. Only one or two sons in a family were picked to have an education and their schooling consisted entirely of the study of the Chinese characters. There are 45,000 letters or characters in the Chinese language but only 10,000 of them are learned in school by the average scholar. Classics can be read after the pupil has mastered five or six thousand symbols."

"The early Chinese education trained the memory and it trained in perseverance. Because it consisted largely of the study of Chinese ethics and Chinese philosophy, it developed a high standard of morals, but it did not train the pupil for practical life."

"Then in 1905 a new scheme of education entered China. Americans were placed at the head of Chinese schools and the Anglo-Chinese college at Foo Chow is one of these schools. Three hundred students graduated from this college last year and the institution has just celebrated its fortieth anniversary. It is called the 'light and the salt' of China because its graduates seek political offices so they may preserve the government and also because wherever there is a Standard Oil station in China, one of its graduates can always be found in charge."

Study Yank Methods

"The Chinese early recognized the need for vocational education after they had adopted the new system. For that reason they sent men to the Philippines to study the plan of education which several Americans were bringing into use there. These Americans had originated the happy idea of fitting the textbook to the needs of the child rather than of having the child fit the textbook. To do this they made a study of the islands in order to learn what things an individual had to know in order to make a living there. Then they made textbooks that aimed to teach the pupils these things. The Chinese delegation returned home enthusiastic and is now working to have the same method adopted there."

In closing, Mr. Ford said: "Every man is suited for a certain piece of work that only he can accomplish. This is his unique responsibility to society and unless he is permitted and given a chance to find the place which he alone can fill, society suffers by that much."

The program was announced by Herman G. Saenger, president of the vocational school board. The presentation of certificates by Principal W. S. Ford concluded the evening's program. Principal Ford urged the graduates to keep on learning so that they might reach the highest places in whatever vocations they follow.

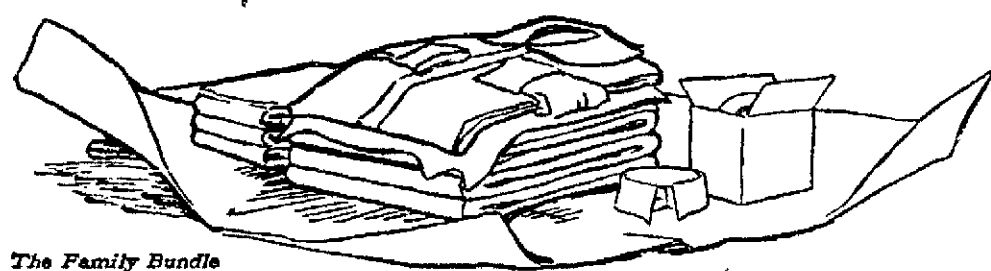

Before leaving the building, visitors and pupils were presented with copies of the annual number of the Vocational School News which is printed in the school's own print shop.

destrian has responsibility for his own safety and should be constantly watching.

"Machines that cannot be perfectly controlled have no business on the street. If the brakes are worn, the car is a menace to the public. It is up to the driver to keep them gripping so that they will not fall in a tight place."

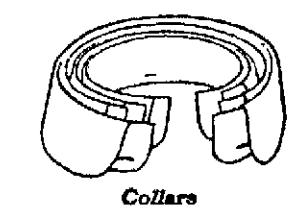

Fix Up Lights

"We are going to get after those who are violating the law in regard to lights. Just the other night I stopped a man who was driving without lights. He said the lights had just gone out. I ordered him to take the machine off the street."

AMERICA'S BUSINESS BULK

The holiday apart, on the basis of daily averages the volume of business in the first week of June was 20 per cent more than during the week before, measuring by the individual debit accounts reported from 153 important clearing house districts. The total amount, almost $7,000,000,000, is more impressive than the increase, gratifying though the latter may be.

It is no impoverished, poverty-stricken country, even in "depression", whose clearing house districts record transactions of $7,000,000,000 for a single week. It is the greatest business country on earth: a country so rich in resource, indeed, that if it were necessary and the undertaking were properly organized America could junk every railroad that she owns and replace them without imposing keen distress upon any inhabitant or closing a single movie show. To be sure this would require many "readjustments," but they could be made. We seldom realize adequately the hugeness of our national wealth.

While the daily average in volume of these banking transactions showed 20 per cent increase, this does not mean a commensurate increase in sales of goods. If it had the stock market would have gone up like a rocket. No one expects such a swift turn for the better in some time to come, although it is confident business opinion now that the fall months are going to bring marked improvement in commercial activity.

AVOIDABLE LOSS OF LIFE

Prodigal waste is a characteristic of our present civilization. Much of it might easily be avoided; certainly something should be done to reduce loss of human life and property by carelessness or lack of necessary legislation. There were 91,000 persons killed on highways of the United States in the past nineteen months; 14,000 more than perished in an equal period of active American fighting abroad. In New York state 166 persons were killed in traffic accidents during May alone. Of these 79 were children. Of the 91,000, 25,000 were children of school age.

When the automobile first took its place upon our roads it was often visualized as a modern juggernaut. We have perfected the relatively clumsy motor cars of an earlier day. We have not yet sufficiently perfected the regulation of motor traffic, since the resulting mortality remains so high.

There were upwards of 12,000 suicides in the United States last year, and of this number some 1,500 were of children. Suicide is as easily preventable as motor accidents. Psychiatric clinics offer help at the right moment to desperate human beings. A better understanding of the problems of childhood by teachers and parents would avert many of the touching tragic suicides of children.

In other fields of destruction, too, a huge life waste goes on. But in some at least of the other fields it has been lowered. Railroad accidents took nearly 12,000 lives in 1907. They took less than 7,000 in 1919. Years of agitation in their case resulted in measures that reduced the mortality to a less needlessly high figure.

PATRIOTISM AND MANNERS

Speaking at a college commencement the other day, John W. Davis, ex-ambassador to Great Britain, expressed the view that boasting of our national virtues and achievements, implying that we are vastly superior to the rest of the world, is a display of bad manners rather than an indication of real patriotism. Mr. Davis pointedly observed that Americanism does not consist in "a vast contempt for other nations" and that "one may be a very good American and still believe that all wisdom will not die with us, and that other nations possess many virtues which we not only do not monopolize but which we can well afford to imitate."

The New York Times recommends this view to the consideration of the orators preparing to speak on the coming national holiday and says: "Few, if any, of the speakers who have been wont on Fourth of July to tell their hearers what a great and noble people we are, and how much greater and nobler we are than other peoples, would talk in this absurd and unmannerly way about themselves or any one of their hearers. They have too much sense for that and too much fear of exciting derisive laughter as windy self-magnifiers or fulsome flatterers."

The view of Mr. Davis is impressive, but the national habit is deep-seated, and the average orator on the Fourth is likely to take his cue from President Harding, who recently, without stopping to think how it would sound in other countries, palatably declared that "if all the nations of the earth were as honest and unselfish as this republic there would never be another war."

ART VERSUS BRAWN

Chicago music lovers are much disturbed. They are in danger of losing their grand opera company because Mary Garden has not been able to raise the $500,000 a year for five years which is necessary to keep it going.

Tex Rickard has already sold $700,000 of seats for the Dempsey-Carpentier fight and expects to double the amount. The fight may not last more than five minutes. Draw your own conclusion.

THE OPEN DOOR

President Harding and Secretary of State Hughes are right in their efforts to create equal opportunity for all nations in the development of natural resources throughout the world.

The latest evidence that this is the fixed policy of the administration is contained in the Hughes note to the Dutch government protesting against American nationals being deprived of their reciprocal rights to exploit the oil fields in the Dutch East Indies.

They are reciprocal rights because Dutch citizens as well as the citizens of other nations are permitted to share in the development of oil properties in the United States. The note to the Dutch logically follows the one sent to the British about the oil fields in Mesopotamia.

The point of view of foreign governments whose citizens walk into our open door and then blandly shut their doors in the faces of American citizens on the same errand, is hard to understand. They seem to operate on the theory that what is ours is theirs and what is theirs is their own. If that is the idea the sooner they get it out of their heads the better.

TRAVELERS

By Berton Braley

The green grocer's daughter has sailed o'er the water
Along with her mother and aunt;
The wife of the plumber will spend her whole summer
In place of her mother and aunt.

The butcher and baker and candlestick maker
Are sending their families out
On journeys extensive—too highly expensive
For me to be thinking about.

I'll not be capricious or over-suspicious,
But somehow it seems a bit queer,
When prices are falling with swiftness appalling,
I find things exceedingly dear.

For all of this touring and travel alluring
Costs money, which none can deny!
Who pays it? Well, rumor suggests the consumer,
And I—so to speak—am the guy!

But I'm turning cannier, they can't get my nanny
By any such tactics as those.
I NOW do my shopping where prices are dropping (Though slowly enough, heaven knows).

Sill, quite without shaming the pennies, I'm saving
So much of my pay, it is clear,
That, given the notion, WE might cross the ocean
And tour around Europe next year!

INCREASE IN FOREIGN MAILS

A comparison of United States mails dispatched to foreign countries by steamers for the first nine months of the last two fiscal years shows that 2,560,043 pounds of letters and postcards were dispatched in 1920 and 1,794,822 pounds in 1919, or 32.63 per cent increase. In 1920 there were 17,377,424 pounds of prints dispatched and 16,943,543 pounds in 1919, or 2.56 per cent increase. The dispatch of parcel post amounted to 26,453,543 pounds in 1920 and 12,583,722 pounds in 1919, or an increase of 105.25 per cent.

WHAT TO CARRY ON THAT VACATION

At this time of year many readers go away on camping or automobile trips and wish to know what they should carry in the emergency outfit. For the benefit of campers and vacationists who merely desire to be equipped to care for everyday emergencies the following list is suggested:

1. Tincture of iodine (U. S. P.), one ounce.
2. Absorbent cotton, one 4-ounce carton.
3. Sterile gauze, three one-yard folds in sealed envelopes.
4. Gauze bandages one-inch, two-inch, three-inch, two of each.
5. Zinc oxide adhesive plaster, one inch by five yards on spool.
6. Flexible collodion (U. S. P.), one ounce.
7. Alcohol, one-half pint.
8. Boric acid powder, one-half pound.
9. Sterile petrolatum, two one-ounce tubes.
10. Freshly prepared cold cream, two one-ounce tubes.
11. Aromatic spirits of ammonia, (U. S. P.), two ounces.
12. Salafit powders (U. S. P.), one dozen in tin.
13. Phenolphthalein, 100 one-grain tablets.
14. Copper sulphate, one dozen one-grain tablets.
15. Aspirin, one dozen five-grain tablets.
16. Solidified liniment, two half-ounce tubes.

Briefly stated, the purposes of these items, by number, are: 1. First aid swabbing of all wounds or abrasions; 2. Dressing injuries; 3. Aseptic covering for any wound; 4. Dressing injuries; 5. Retaining dressings and protecting or drawing wounds together in lieu of stitching; 6. Sealing over fresh cuts in place of uncleanly plaster; 7. Moist dressing for burn, sunburn, or wound—antiseptic, evaporating lotions, one part alcohol, five parts water; 8. Antiseptic—tablets dissolved in pint of boiled water—for mouthwash, gargle, bathing wound, douche, etc.; 9. Neutral ointment for general use in place of noisome or harmful salves; 10. Sunburn and chaps; 11. Quick stimulant for fainting, shock, collapse or weakness, in doses of half to one teaspoonful in a little water, antacid for stomach, for sick headache, etc., in doses of a few drops in water; antidote for insect bites, applied locally, diluted with five to ten parts of water; 12. Cathartic; 13. Mild laxative; 14. Instantaneous emetic for any emergency, in dose of one or two tablets in a tablespoonful of water; 15. Less dangerous than opiates or acetanilide combinations for relief of headache, and other pains; 16. Convenient, cleanly way to apply a counter-irritant for relief to cold, cramp, stiffness, soreness and pain.

The entire list might be cut in halves or even fourths if weight and carrying space is a problem.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Looking for Thistles, You Overlook the Four Leaf Clovers

After ten to fourteen hours sleep I arise with burning headaches every day, take a dose of cathartic, and eagerly search the paper to see if you have anything to say about headaches. You carefully avoid mentioning the subject. Your discourse on acetanilide so affected me that now I take only one headache powder a day. Am 27 years old, and have developed for five years. Professional musician. Salts habit only recently acquired; up until two years ago never was constipated.

ANSWER.—Irregular life, irregular meals, irregular hours of sleep. Ten hours would be ample for you, and fourteen hours is enough to intoxicate a hired man. The daily cathartic habit is very bad. My friend, you take your acetanilide too lightly, and your headaches also. A daily dose of acetanilide will inevitably break down the blood corpuscles, weaken the heart, damage the nervous system, and make you a physical, if not a mental, wreck in time. No doubt a few weeks of thorough hygienic treatment would relieve your headaches and put you in the way to regain normal health. Why not hang up the fiddle and the bow for a few weeks and sojourn in some good sanatorium or hospital for treatment?

Jane was taken to the barber shop to have her hair cut for the first time. There were several men in the shop, so they had to wait their turn. Nothing escaped her notice, so when it was her turn and daddy was ready to lift her into the chair she seemed frightened and cried to go home, and home she came. Next morning I took her to task about it, telling her how bad poor daddy felt when she was so naughty. She looked up at me and said: "I just tell you, mamma, I would a had my hair cut, but I didn't want to be shaved."

A Blow At Marriage?

By Frederic J. Haskin

Washington, D. C.—That several of the Government departments, by discriminating against married women in their office forces, are in effect penalizing marriage for those who are already married, and making it less attractive for those who might be, is the claim of women here who are active in the movement to get women working opportunities equal to those enjoyed by men.

Haskin

Miss Elsie Hill, of the National Woman's Party, states that several of the Government departments, which are now reducing their payrolls, have issued questionnaires to their women employees in order to find out which are married and which are single. A questionnaire sent out by the Air Service, of which we have a copy, is evidently designed to gain further information about the circumstances of the married women, living with her husband, if not, whether she is legally separated from him; whether the husband is dependent upon her for support; and whether any members of her immediate family are employed by the Government, and if so, how much each earns.

Following issuance of these questionnaires, Miss Hill states, a large number of married women have been dropped from the rolls of the department, without regard to their efficiency. In many cases, she says, married women of long experience and established value, have been dropped for no other discoverable reason than that they were married at the same time, she says, the Civil Service is holding examinations for employees of similar grade and kind.

The object of the various departments in dropping married women from their rolls is plain. They are compelled to drop some employees and are eager to drop those who will suffer least hardship as a result. Obviously the married women who have an employed husband is less apt to suffer from the loss of her job than the single woman entirely dependent upon her own resources.

Good Intentions

The women recognize this motive and its practical justification. They realize that the bureau chiefs are not going to strike a blow at marriage. But they claim that in effect it is a blow at marriage, and also at the right of a woman to work and be independent.

It is this latter phase of question which chiefly interest the women politicians. And as far as the effect on marriage is concerned they simply point out that the same conservatives, who contend that woman's place is in the home, are often keeping her out of it, when, by measures like this one, they destroy her earning capacity.

For the modern American woman generally works because she must. She may also work because she wants to do so, but it is necessity for more than choice that has brought woman into the working world. In American cities the number of men who can support a wife and children in a really adequate way has been on the decline for a long time, as both prices and standards of living have risen, while salaries and wages have climbed slowly after them. The departments at Washington like the offices of other American cities, are filled with unmarried girls between the ages of 20 and 30.

The feminists will tell you that these girls are working because they love their independence, and that they would want to continue to work if they were self-supporting even though they are married. Unprejudiced observers, on the other hand, have estimated that an offer of marriage and support from an attractive man with an assured income of ten thousand a year would be rejected by only about one-tenth of one per cent of these bachelor girls.

Most of them are working because they have to, and most of them have not married because the good chance has not come along. No doubt many of them do appreciate their independence and they probably appreciate it more after they have made some progress in their work and have become accustomed to the blessings of freedom. But they are workers above all from necessity. Not only ten-thousand-dollar men, but even five-thousand-dollar men are lamentably scarce. They are quickly captured by the more attractive girls, and usually by girls with social setting and enough money to dress in style, rather than by stenographers living on $25 a week. What the stenographer actually finds available in the way of a spouse is usually a clerk in the same office, making anywhere from twenty-five hundred to four thousand a year. She herself may be making as much as two thousand. If she is past the flapper stage of indiscreet enthusiasm, she will think twice before giving up her independent income to share one less than twice as large. Yet that is often what the man wants her to do. He does not want his wife to hold a job.

Working Complex

But there are more and more cases in which the man abandons this point-of-view for the more sensible one. They marry and on their combined incomes are able to establish an attractive home and to save money for the deferred expenses of having children. The resultant home and family is just as much founded on the woman's earnings as on the man's. There is, in such a case—and there are now many such cases—no more justification for discharging the woman because she has a husband than there would be for discharging the man because he has a wife.

The whole argument was vigorously thrashed out a few years ago when there was widespread effort to deprive married teachers of their jobs. The conclusion in both cases seems to be unmistakable. Leaving out all feminist theory, women in this country more and more have to have gainful employment in order to live. Often they have to work in order to marry, and have children. You may deplore this if you please, as a condition which threatens the home and our ideal of womanhood and all that. Or you may rejoice over it as the beginning of a new era of independence and usefulness for women. But you cannot blink the fact. And as long as women have to work, common justice demands that they must not be discriminated against because of their sex.

That is why the women have taken up cudgels against these department questionnaires. The first great object of the National Woman's Party and of all the other political organizations of women, is to get for women who have to work a fair deal. To this end they intend to push another amendment to Federal Constitution which is to provide that woman shall not be discriminated against because of sex or marriage. Laws of similar intent are to be introduced into the state legislatures.

The feminists seem to differ greatly as to just what part woman should play in life. Some of them seem to think that she should be primarily wife and mother and others that she should have the whole world of seem to agree and are hard to refute: work open to her. But on one point they seem to agree and are hard to refute: The woman who has to work for her living, and perhaps for the living of her children, should not be deprived of her job or paid a lower salary because of her sex.

Q. Please publish a recipe for ice cream with fruit in it. S. M. T.

A. A simple foundation for fruit ice cream is 1 quart of cream, to which ½ pound of sugar and an egg has been added. Remove peelings and seeds from four large very ripe peaches. Press through sieve, add to cream and freeze. Three bananas may be substituted, or a scant quart of strawberries, taking care to strain through a sieve. The egg may be omitted if preferred.

Q. Where are the three highest chimneys in the world? H. W. V.

A. According to all records examined, the highest chimney in the world is the one at Anaconda, Montana, which is 585 feet, 1½ inches high. The second is at Tacoma, Washington, 572 feet, 10 inches high, and third at Saganoseki, Japan, 570 feet.

Q. What causes the puffing sound that a locomotive makes? H. H. M.

A. The Hydrographic Office of the Navy Department says that the "puffing" sound emitted by a smokestack on a locomotive engine is caused by the used-up steam (technically known as the "exhaust") from the cylinder which is fired into the smokestack for the purpose of increasing the draught, and thus diverted from a more natural outlet. It is the firing of the steam in this unusual way that causes the depression which makes the sound. Exhaust steam is also in some engines condensed and carried into the hot water pipes.

Q. What is the difference between an octopus and a devilfish? How large does each grow? D. E. G.

A. The Bureau of Fisheries says that there is no difference between the devilfish and the octopus. In some parts of the country where the devilfish is abundant, it ranges from 7-8 feet and weighs from 50-60 pounds.

LA CROSSE TO LOSE PLACE ON AIR ROUTE

Washington, D. C.—As a result of failure of congress to appropriate sufficient funds for the upkeep of the Chicago to Minneapolis, and Chicago to St. Louis air mail routes, the aviation field at La Crosse, as well as numerous fields will have to be abandoned, the postoffice department announced. July 1 was set as the date on which the routes will be abandoned.

The transcontinental route from New York to San Francisco will be continued as usual, as congress set aside funds for that purpose.

As far as possible, the postoffice department announced, aviators and other employees at the abandoned fields will be absorbed into the transcontinental route as well as the equipment.

Civilization's Greatest Achievement

Some Eskimos were brought down to Edmonton, Alberta, on official business.

They had never before been south of the Arctic Circle.

They had never seen a street, a town, a window, or a wooden door. A bed, a water tap, and an electric light produced completely new sensations. Street cars were unknown to them; telephones unheard of; trains not to be believed even when beheld.

They had never seen an automobile until someone took them riding in one. They had never set their eyes on an airplane until someone did his most daring stunts in one to thrill them. They had never even seen a movie!

But what do you suppose moved them most in the whole bag of tricks which civilization produced for their amusement and amazement?

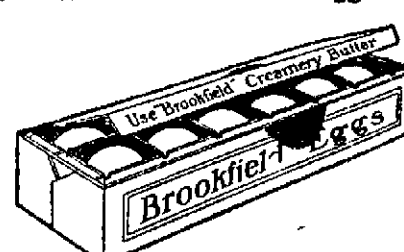

What seemed to them the greatest wonder of all?

The cold storage plants!

The White Man didn't always have to hunt and fish when he wanted to eat!

Here was civilization's greatest gift, its greatest benefaction.

This feature of civilization makes it possible for Swift & Company, in the season of over production, to store a supply of food for distribution in the season of scant, or non-production. Thus we are able to maintain for all a constant supply of such choice and necessary foods as Premium Milk-fed Chickens, Brookfield Butter and Brookfield Eggs.

THE BOOK OF MARTHA
The End of An Imperfect Day
For two days after that visit to the hospital, Ann Lorimer revolved about her husband's invalid chair. Jim brightened the first day and tired the second. His wife's vivacity exhausted him but her presence so flattered him that neither his doctor nor any member of his family had the courage to send her away. We knew that her devotion probably would be as short as it was sweet. The babe was too selfish to see that Jim was not improving. Very lately Mother Lorimer had told me the truth about Jim's condition. Ann had snipped the knitting ribs so much I knew, and many a time had I raged about the accident, just as Jim had nearly recovered from his wound. His collapse was the result of Ann's indiscretion the day she had been showing off to Van. She had danced madly, and for an alluring finale, had thrown herself upon her husband's wheelchair, and into his arms—just to make Paul Van Eyck jealous! But by the morning of the third day, Ann had grown tired of entertaining a sick man. "Jane dear, come over and read to Jimmy this afternoon!" she pleaded over the phone. "I'd gladly do it but he doesn't want me, he wants you!" "Shucks! he doesn't care! And I simply must go to the maine with Van. He knows the star, and he's going behind the curtain to call, and take me, and I've never been back of the scenes, and it's

Council of Creatures
Flippety-Flap and Nancy looked, and suddenly they saw what Nick saw, a curious sign cut into the bark of a tree. "Let's see what it says," suggested Nancy, trotting over quickly, and the others didn't need coaxing. They tiptoed as feathers, and made out these words, "The Council of Creatures." Whether the words were written in antelope language, or leopard language, or warthog language, or gazelle language, or something equally difficult, neither Nancy or Nick told me, but it doesn't matter, for, having the language charm that the Magical Mushroom had given them, the children could have understood had there been no letters there at all. "The Council of Creatures," repeated Flippety-Flap in puzzled way. "I never heard of it. I wonder what it all means." Just then a voice beside them remarked rather tartly, "That's not surprising considering that the Council of Creatures most likely, never heard of you, either. Are you friends or foes?" Flippety-lap and the twins turned quickly and beheld a mongoose close beside them, which also was most surprising, as one had been there a minute before. "Friends," answered the fairman quickly. "Oh, all right," said the mongoose in a relieved tone. "We can't be too careful, you know." Then he went on, suddenly suspicious again. "But whom are you friendly to? It doesn't happen to be Tag Tiger, does it? You're sure that Tag Tiger didn't send you to spy on us, are you?" "Us?" Flippety-Flap looked around in astonishment. "How many thousand people do you think you are, Mr. Mongoose?" "Oh, I'm only one, but the rest are inside. You see, I'm the guard. I have to watch out here and let the others know if Tag Tiger comes along. Do you wish to go in?" The mongoose pointed to a sort of doorway between some rocks. (To Be Continued.) Copyright, 1921, N. FORMER APPLETON PEOPLE VISITED ON EASTERN TRIP

Dr. and Mrs. M. J. Sandborn and Daughter Take Delightful Auto Journey.

Dr. and Mrs. M. J. Sandborn and daughter Ruth have returned from a 3,000-mile automobile trip to Boston, Mass., where the doctor attended mid-annual meeting of the Radiological society of North America, of which he is secretary-treasurer. Several former Appleton people living along the route were visited. Leaving Appleton May 25, Dr. and Mrs. Sandborn were joined in Milwaukee by their daughter. The automobile was shipped to Muskegon, Mich., from where the party drove to Detroit. The machine was again freighted to Buffalo, N. Y., from where the drive was completed to Boston. At Malone, N. Y., the Appleton people visited with Dr. W. D. Marsh and family. Dr. Marsh was pastor of the First Methodist church here for seven years prior to the coming of Dr. E. Wood and is happily situated in his new pastorate. Dr. Sandborn and daughter visited many points of historic interest in and around Boston while the medical meeting was in session. About a day was spent at Plymouth, where extensive preparations are being made for the tercentary celebration of the landing of the pilgrims. Dr. Sandborn believes it will require a year to complete the plans. Returning over the Mohawk trail, the party visited Comerford, North Adams and Lexington, and toured through the Berkshire hills. They called on Dr. T. W. B. Crafer in Syracuse, N. Y. Dr. Crafer left his position in the economics department of Lawrence college a year ago to become the head of a similar department in Syracuse university. A visit was made at the new papermill of Kimberly-Clark company at Niagara Falls, N. Y., where Dr. Sandborn found S. A. Stip, Henry Boon and other former Appleton men. He visited Frank Shattuck, who happened to be there on business. Sometime also was spent by the family at the Wisconsin club, which was created by men of the Fox River valley who are employed at the new mill. One day was spent at Niagara Falls, after which the autoists drove by way of Canadian cities to Battle Creek, Mich., to visit Alden ("Ziggy") Thompson, former Lawrence athlete who is director of athletics in Battle Creek high school. A stop also was made at the home of the parents of Claude Grimm, who is employed at an Appleton garage. A double event occurred on their arrival in Chicago Monday of last week. Dr. Sandborn attended twenty-fifth annual reunion of his medical class in Northwestern university, and graduation exercises of university, at which Miss Ruth Sandborn received her master of arts degree. "We had little difficulty in finding our way," said Dr. Sandborn, "but we found no state with as well planned and effective a system of marking highways as in Wisconsin. We would advise anybody who plans an extensive trip to make it by automobile. It was the most enjoyable experience our family ever had and we hope to repeat it some day."

RINSO

A New Form of Soap for the Family Laundry

Yesterday we opened a week's demonstration of the latest labor saver for laundry days. Rinso is not a soap powder. It is a new high grade soap product, different from anything ever before made. It is a new form of soap in granules, the most modern form for the family laundry. To prove this—a teaspoonful of Rinso in a glass of boiling water jells perfectly. No ordinary soap powder contains enough soap to jelly. Rinso cleanses beautifully with no boiling, no rubbing, just soaking in the wonderful suds. Rinso cannot injure clothing or hands. It contains no injurious cleansing agents. By this new method of washing—a half package of Rinso is used to a tub of clothes. These are allowed to stand overnight in cold water and taken out the next morning and rinsed and hung on the line. See the demonstration all this week on first floor.

Big Fruit Crop
Sturgeon Bay has a large crop of cherries this year according to Albert Rehbein, who has just returned from a two days' trip to that part of the state. He says they have started to ripen, but the picking will not commence until early in July. Every provision is being made for handling the crop promptly. There is also a good crop of apples. Mr. Rehbein says tourists from all over the country are daily arriving.

PAINS IN SIDE AND BACK

Caused by Woman's Ills and Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Grafton, Pa.—"I was troubled with inflammation and pains in my sides and back. After doctoring with different doctors and not getting better, I had almost given up hopes when my sister told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and knowing that she had really been helped by it, I purchased it. I was unable to do my work at that time, but after taking several bottles of the Vegetable Compound I can now do anything about the house or farm that a woman should do. I have four months old baby that is the healthiest and biggest baby for his age that I have ever seen, and I give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound all the praise for my health."—Mrs. BLAIR L. FISHER, R.D.1, Box 37, Grafton, Pa.

Working early and late—lifting, carrying, and the heaviest of household duties—is it any wonder that it results in backaches and kindred ills. But every woman who suffers as Mrs. Fisher did should profit by her experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

WOMAN LAWYER WORKING FOR EUGENICS MEASURE

(Special to Post-Crescent)
New York—You are about to be married. You ask for a license. The clerk says, "Let's see your eugenics certificate."

That will be the situation met by sweethearts in New York if the eugenics bill passes the legislature.

Miss Rose Rothenberg, assistant district attorney, is working for the measure.

"I'll see that it's enforced, too, if it passes," she says.

The proposed bill provides that every person must obtain a bill of health from a physician appointed by the Board of Health. Otherwise, no license.

"It is far better to wreck the lives of couples in love, but suffering with disease, than for them to marry and bring handicapped children into the world," she says.

"Some couples will be selfish enough to evade the law, I suppose, but a eugenics law will certainly help to prevent the disease which threatens to deteriorate the human race."

"Men are more to blame than women for the necessity of a eugenics law."

Miss Rothenberg was asked if she herself would refuse a man unless he came bearing a eugenics certificate.

"Not only would I insist on it," she says, "but I should bring him mine, also."

GIVING AWAY NEW NICKELS IS HOBBY OF RICHEST MAN

John D. Rockefeller Keeps Alive by Playing Golf and Giving Away Nickels.

By E. M. Thiberry
Special to Post-Crescent
Tarrytown, N. Y.—Hobbies are keeping the richest man in the world alive.

John D. Rockefeller has two. He gives a brand new nickel to every man, woman and child he meets—including his chauffeur, his caddy and the guards at Pocantico Hills.

He plays golf every morning except Sunday.

These are the things that give him his only real enjoyment and add zest—and perhaps years—to his life. Rockefeller is getting feebler. But it is significant of his tenacity of spirit that he has discarded the three-wheeled bicycle on which he used to be pushed around his private golf course.

Every day he walks the entire distance of his nine-hole course. And the other day he made the round in 42 strokes!

If you want to see how the richest man in the world looks riding his golf hobby, come to Tarrytown and post yourself outside the iron gate of the 6000-acre estate nearest to the adjacent Sisters of Mercy orphanage.

A hundred yards away from the gate stands a little red flag on the green of Hole No. 8. From there it is a long drive to the last hole up near the house, which is hidden by shrubbery.

Promptly at 11 o'clock every morning there appears a little knot of attendants, perhaps a play-guest or two—and a little thin man wearing long, white, baggy trousers, a white shirt with sleeves rolled up, tennis shoes and a large white cap pulled down over his white hair.

That is John D. Rockefeller. "It's amazing how he can drive the ball," said a guard at the gate near Hole No. 8.

"Yes, he's getting feeble—but he persists in footing it around the course. And he's regular as clockwork. You could almost set your watch by his appearance at this hole. It's always 11 o'clock."

"New nickels? Say, I think his hobby about new nickels gives him as much pleasure as golf. It seems to buck him up to give 'em away."

SPURNS CAVE MAN; WANTS MAN OF COLLAR AD TYPE

Chicago—Sixteen-year-old Janet di Gioia was figuratively picked up by the Italian colony here and shaken the dust out of it.

And the colony is gasping. When Janet passed her sixteenth birthday, Papa di Gioia, according to the ancient custom, began to look about for a husband for her.

One day papa arrived home with Joseph Siciliano on his arm.

"Your future husband," is the way he introduced him.

Instead of meekly saying, "I do," she boldly announced "I won't."

When Siciliano became insistent, Janet, with blazing eyes and head erect, went to the nearest police station and had him haled into court.

"I'm an American twentieth century girl," she told Judge Schulman. "No cave man stuff for mine. I have no grievances against Siciliano, but when I wed, I will be courted by favor and not by force."

"I told my father I could not marry Joe. In Italy, yes, but this is America! Women here are women, not puppets!" After listening to her story Judge Schulman fined Siciliano $200 for breaking the peace.

"Will you ever marry?" Janet was asked as she left the court.

"Some day, perhaps," she said. And blushed as she added:

"I will be older and the boy will be nice—like the one that wears the beautiful collars in the street car cards."

Future Of Austria Is Presenting Dark Problem

Former Powerful Empire Must Receive Assistance Soon if It Is to Exist.

By COL. E. M. HOUSE
Copyright, 1921 by E. M. House Co.
Vienna—Austria, no longer dominates Southeastern Europe. Vienna still holds her queenly place among the cities of the earth. It has an alluring beauty which no other city save Paris can claim. It is crumbling a little and lacks something of its old time cleanliness but its delightful, misty, gray avenues and green-clad boulevards hold their historic charm. It is, as of old the meeting place of the East and West and this, in itself lends an interest which few cities hold.

Once the seat of an empire, it has now become merely the capital of a small state and this has caused the prediction to be made that it had run its race and would slowly die as cities have died before. But the misfortune of war did not come to Vienna alone. Great cities in the east of her—Petrograd, Moscow and Warsaw—were even harder hit and the currents of commerce have been diverted from them and Vienna has claimed her share.

Of the future of Austria itself, there are many opinions, most of them pessimistic. No one sees clearly the way out. At present there is an overwhelming desire to become part of the German republic. This desire is born of despair and the failure to find a solution of their many difficulties. When all is said and done, Prussia still dominates Germany and will probably always be the controlling factor in any confederation of German states. This being true, it is hard to believe that the easy-going Austrian can live happily with his Prussian brother.

An alternative is to seek closer economic and financial ties with the other fragments of the old empire. Up to now this has seemed more difficult than union with Germany for the ancient antagonisms seem to have been sharpened by the havoc wrought by the war. No federation worthy of the name could be brought about between Austria, Hungary, Jugoslavia and Czechoslovakia unless a decided change in sentiment takes place. It will be difficult to get them to consent to the degree of free trade and general lifting of political and economic barriers which seem so essential to their mutual prosperity and comfort.

The other parts of the old empire are not in such dire straits as Austria and the necessity for such action is not so pressing. Austria cannot wait, and, failing encouragement toward closer relations with her old partner, she looks toward Germany as the only solution.

French opposition to a union with Germany is the recent factor in holding that movement in check. If France should give her consent, immediate action would be taken, even if regret were to follow later. Therefore it would be well for those wishing Austria to maintain a separate existence to give thought to her necessities and help her find a way to remain a sovereign state.

One of the most interesting things happened in Austria is the feeding of some 400,000 children by the American Relief association. This benevolent action of the American people has created a profoundly favorable impression throughout Europe. It is reminding evidence that we have not abandoned Europe in the time of her dire distress. The work is being done in such an efficient way that even the mere machinery of the organization reflects credit. Contributors at home may feel assured that their funds have been wisely expended and that the good will extend to the coming generation and beyond.

The work has not been carried on in a superficial way, and therefore the results will not end with the closing of the relief stations. It has given the authorities an insight into conditions of which they perhaps, were never before cognizant, with the result that a law is being prepared in Austria which will make school kitchens compulsory. It is being drawn under the direction of Dr. Clemens Pirquet, one of the world's eminent authorities upon child alimentation, and is expected to be a model many nations will find expedient to use.

It can be safely asserted that nowhere in Europe are Americans so popular as in Austria, and solely because of the great charity which has been given impetus and direction by Herbert Hoover.

WOMAN PICKS MEN FOR BIG POSITION

Businessmen Turn to Expert to Find Men Who Can Take Care of Jobs.

By R. J. Gibbons
Special to Post-Crescent

Chicago.—The eagle eye and the bulldog chin are the bunk!

Anyhow, they won't help you land that $10,000 a year job.

So says Mrs. Florence Schaefer Robnett, who has helped men and women win $9,000,000 worth of executive berths.

She is a vocational expert of the nth degree, and has an almost uncanny way of sizing up individual values.

Many business houses turn to her when they want a highly capable person.

"There are two kinds of ability to fit two kinds of positions," says Mrs. Robnett.

"One is the ability of personality. The other is the ability of capability."

"A man might easily have one and lack the other."

"Salesmen, for example, need personality. So do officers of an institution coming in contact with people to any great extent."

Possessing only capability, Mrs. Robnett classes the person with that asset, as a "darkroom man"—one who can fill a position where few personal contacts are necessary.

Each day her office is crowded with aspirants after the worthwhile plums she has in her desk.

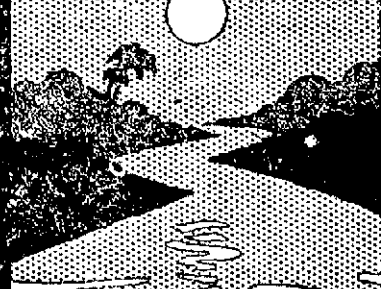

First of all the applicant must have had sufficient experience in the field he or she is seeking to enter, before even a conference is granted.

Then the catechism starts. Here are some of the questions asked:

What do you eat?
Are you cheerful?
Are you enthusiastic?
Do you like baseball?
Can you control yourself?
Have you initiative?
Do you observe?

Have you personality?
Do you manicure your nails?
Keep your shoes shined?
Your linen—is it always clean?

The applicant is allowed to answer all these.

When the list has been filled out Mrs. Robnett files her own remarks after each question.

For example, if a man had personality and didn't think so, she'd take off some of his credit on his ability for observation.

When the task is completed the man is either "made" or he isn't.

Not more than two men are ever sent after the same position.

MOTHER KILLS BEARS TO SAVE HER TWIN CHILDREN

Special to Post-Crescent
Marion, Mont.—"I had to kill the bear or lose my babies—so I killed the bear!"

That is Mrs. Agnes Gerlach Rainwater's explanation of her success in firing three bullets into a black bear which appeared suddenly where her twin sons were playing on her homestead at Lost Prairie.

"The bear came out of the brush and scrambled over the fence into the yard, cutting off the children from the house. I ran and seized a rifle which my uncle had left."

"I had never used it, but I knew something of the way it worked from seeing my uncle fire it. I knew it was loaded."

"When I got back to the yard the boys had backed into a corner, so frightened they could not move. The bear had risen on its hind legs and was walking toward them."

"I ran around in front of the bear, pointed the rifle at its middle and began to shoot, while my boys clung to my skirts. When my uncle came he said any one of the three bullets would have killed it."

BLAINE WILL NOT CALL LAWMAKERS IN EXTRA SESSION

Anti-Administration Forces Are Grooming Candidates for Blaine's Job.

Special to Post-Crescent
Madison—Rumors that unless the legislature passes the administration prohibition enforcement bill and the division of market bill at the present session Governor John J. Blaine would call a special session of the legislature to enact such measures are not only premature but "manufactured out of whole cloth" according to intimate friends and advisers of the governor.

"When the rumor of a special session was started in an effort to frighten the legislature into agreement on the pending bills or was merely an idle dream makes no difference," said one close to Gov. Blaine last night. "In the first place Gov. Blaine is not the kind of an official who tried to browbeat or threaten anyone. Then again the governor as well as anyone else can see the politics in the action of the anti-administration forces. They are trying to put the executive in the hole, but instead are merely playing a losing game of politics which will give the Progressives the best kind of campaign material. Some members of the legislature and the Anti-Saloon league may want to see a special session of the legislature, but to my way of thinking it will take more than the refusal of the legislature to pass the Severson prohibition enforcement bill to get the governor to call one."

If, as seems likely now, the senate and assembly are unable to reach an agreement on the enforcement and market bills, the present statutes will remain in force and the fact that the anti-administration forces refused to pass the administration bills will make excellent political capital for the administration forces in the next campaign.

Rumors that Assemblyman A. E. Matheson, author of the vetoed prohibition enforcement bill was being groomed as a likely dry candidate for governor also appear to be mere rumor, not even gossip about the capitol. It is generally conceded here that former Secretary of State Meritt Hull will again be a candidate for governor in 1922 and that this time he will have the solid support of the drys because of his remarkable run last year.

It is also generally believed that Attorney General W. J. Morgan will be a candidate for governor next year. Morgan's friends in the legislature point to the fact that he and State Treasurer Henry Johnson were the only two candidates in the state ticket who opposed the progressives and his election as a new man was considered much more remarkable than that of Johnson, especially because he got out and fought the progressives as non-partisan leaguers.

ONE-THIRD OF RURAL TEACHERS ARE HIRED

Although it is believed that at least 40 teachers have been engaged for Outagamie rural school, so far 22 have reported to County Superintendent Arthur G. Meating. The number already hired would probably mean that one-third of the rural schools in the county are supplied, Mr. Meating said.

Of the 22 who have reported to the superintendent's office, 19 have received raises in pay ranging from $5 to $20 per month. The lowest salary so far reported to the office is $30, while several of the teachers have signed contracts at $125.

NIGHT PRACTICE FOR BRANDT TEAM

Leaguers to Be in Best Possible Shape for Game With Leaders Next Sunday.

Under the leadership of Manager Mike Murphy the Brandt baseball team will put in an intensive week of practice in preparation for the game at New London next Sunday. The Edison are leading the league with a scant margin over Oshkosh and it is the determination of the Brandts to pull them off from the top. The local men are determined the race shall be between Oshkosh and Appleton.

Practice will be held Tuesday Wednesday and Thursday nights at Brandt park. Manager Murphy has ordered every man out in order to prepare an attack which will be effective. Inside baseball will be taught the men so they will be in a position to take advantage of all the breaks.

Murphy started his career as manager by calling the men together before the game and advising them that Appleton must have a winning club. If the players now on the team can't produce others will be secured, he told them. The result was Sunday's splendid exhibition in which Appleton played one of the finest games ever seen here. The men worked together like cogs in a machine and it is believed this combination can be improved as the season grows older.

GEORGES' CAMP FIGHTERS LOOK LIKE HUGE JOKE

Frankman's Sparring Partners Take Count From Yankee Second Raters.

By United Press Leased Wire. New York.—Neither Jack Dempsey nor Georges Carpentier has much to boast of in the way of sparring partners.

Perhaps the Dempsey camp is a little better supplied in the way of human punching bags. Two of the boxers helping Carpentier gave a sad account of themselves Monday night in Brooklyn. Paul Journee, who has been knocked out by most of the second raters in Europe, continued his successes by taking the count against C. Weinert and Italian Joe Gans was bumped off by Augie Rafter.

Carpentier could have had any number of good American boys to help him out but he passed them up. Perhaps he was afraid they would carry tales back to the American champion. Harry Greb, one of the best in the business and Jack Britton, the welterweight champion, volunteered their services but Des camps smiled and thanked them.

Dempsey has better sparring mates in Larry Williams and Jack Renault but he could get better ones. Kid Norfolk, the colored heavy is expected to join the star this week. He would be a valuable addition.

As a whole Carpentier's camp is a joke, especially when one looks over the beefy chef, Maroot, the French lightweight, and Journee.

The sparring partners are a slapstick comedy and the Frenchman's work is of the same variety. Perhaps he is so good he doesn't need work. His record has never shown it, however.

CLOSE SCORES IN WORLD GOLF TITLE TOURNAMENT

By United Press Leased Wire. St. Andrews, Scotland.—The strain of a tournament play descended upon American players in the British open golf tournament here Tuesday. With another thirty-six holes in which to qualify, the players went to the tees with the knowledge that only a few misplays was sufficient to bar them from the tournament. The class of the field was shown by the close grouping of scores Monday between 73 and 83.

Competition was so keen that Chick Evans, American amateur champion, who scored an 83, was considered to be in danger of not qualifying. Despite his injured wrist, Evans went out Tuesday with determination written all over him.

It is on the sidelines at the ball park where Nick shines. Gloom-Killers. He has a brand new set of gloom.

Sport Views And News

Not for many years have Appleton baseball fans spent as much time in discussion of a baseball game as they are doing now. Last Sunday's game with Oshkosh was one of the classic exhibitions of the national sport ever seen in the Fox River valley. Followers of the game contend that even the big leaguers never play a better game than Sunday's battle. It reflects a lot of credit on the Brandts to win that kind of a contest.

The team is going good now under Murphy's leadership and much may be expected of it.

They are having a fine time picking the referee for the big bout and it will probably end up by Rickard handling the job himself. Tex pulled a trick like this once before and got away in good shape. However it would be a lot better for all concerned if somebody not connected with the title got in any capacity was the third man in the ring. Harry Erle of Jersey City is probably as good an official as any of the others and Kearns should come off his high horse and put the O. K. on the referee as he is favored by the New Jersey boxing commission and is suitable to Carpentier and Descamps.

The qualifying rounds of the British open golf championship were played at St. Andrews Scotland Monday. There is a fairly representative field of American players in the competition, both pro and amateur. The Tanks will be up against some real class and it is not likely that any of the Americans will reach the final rounds. Uncle Sam's chances received quite a set back when Chick Evans injured his wrist. This will prevent him from taking part in the British classic.

Detroit staged a home coming for Hughie Jennings. The former Tiger manager is now playing first lieutenant to John McGraw of the Giants and the New Yorkers were booked for an exhibition game. Jennings got the key to the city.

PROTESTED GAME IS ORDERED REPLAYED

New York.—Replay of part of the protested victory of the Cincinnati Nationals over Pittsburgh on May 28 by 4 to 3 in ten innings has been ordered by President John A. Heydler.

Pittsburgh declared that Pitcher Luque of Cincinnati, while in a ten per cent throw the ball toward the Red's dugout and that Barnhardt of Pittsburgh was thrown out while trying for third after the ball was interfered with by a visiting player on the bench, whereas a "block" ball should have been declared.

President Heydler ruled that the part game should be played before the scheduled game of June 30 with the score tied 3-3 in the last half of the eighth two out, with Barnhardt on third and Cutchaw at the bat.

JACK'S FIGHTING INSTINCT IS HIS GREATEST ASSET

Champion's Punching Ability and Speed Keep Opponent on the Run.

By Jack McLaughlin. New York.—Jack Dempsey's fighting instinct is his greatest asset.

He does not regard the bout between Dempsey and Carpentier as a child's play even if it is only for 12 rounds. He fought a 106-round draw with Sam Smith for the championship Dec. 19, 1917.

"Dempsey is as rugged as they make 'em and Carpentier has a head on his shoulders that will save his hands a lot," he says.

"I think boxers of today have as much endurance as we had in the old days. It's all a matter of training." Kilrain's wrong. Fighters of yesterday were of tougher stuff because they made themselves so, in preparing for long, gruelling battles.

If Dempsey and Carpentier were training for a 106-round contest they wouldn't be such gluttons for rest. Kilrain is now a watchman at a shipyard building plant at Quincy, Mass. He is 62 years old.

Home Run Rampage Nineteen Twenty produced 631 home runs in major league baseball.

Nineteen twenty-one is almost certain to far outdistance this record.

In games up to and including June 16 the American League had made 192 home runs—an average of .4344 homers per game.

Extending this ratio for total games of the season, the American League would make 535 home runs.

In the National League at the same date, 168 circuit drives had been made in 428 games—an average of .3808 home runs per game.

At this clip the National League would make a total of 469 home runs for a season.

This would make a grand total for both leagues of 1004 homers for the season—an undreamed of fence busting record.

A. H. Grizmacher, Appleton—The consensus of opinion is that Dempsey will win but the sympathies of the people are with Carpentier. I think still there will be a lot of money lost if Carpentier wins.

E. F. Carroll, Appleton—I can't see anybody but the present champion. I can't figure out how Carpentier even has a chance and I figure the fight will go about six rounds and the Frenchman will be through. If I were putting any money on the fight, that is where it would go.

F. L. Yost, Kaukauna—I have formed no opinion in regard to the fight, but my sympathy is with Carpentier. I take the same stand that one of our representatives takes, that Dempsey is a slacker and a bum and I think that most service men will tell you the same.

A. P. Burnham, Janesville—I suppose Dempsey will win but I hope Georges knocks the champion's block off. There are the two sides to the question. Most people may think that Dempsey will win hands down, but on account of his action during the war, they may be in sympathy with the Frenchman.

Myron Olson, 640 Bennett-st.—Dempsey will win. He has the advantage in weight and reach and power. But I feel that if the fight runs very long the Frenchman will have a chance and he may win in a long drawn out bout.

CRAFTS GETS SET TO HALT BIG SCRAP

Reformer Believes He Can Stop Dempsey-Carpentier Setto July 2.

Special to Post-Crescent. Washington.—Both Dempsey and Carpentier are threatened with a "spiritual knockout" before their big fight, July 2.

The man who says he's going to deliver the blow is Rev. Wilbur F. Crafts, head of the International Reform bureau.

He will not start action to stop the Carpentier-Dempsey fracas until within 10 days of the date set for the bout. He says he has all lines laid.

"Can Crafts stop the fight? Well, he has a record of three 'knockouts.'"

"When everything was set for the Fitzsimmons fight in St. Paul, the pavilion built and enthusiasts swarming there, I arrived," says Crafts.

"It was Saturday night. The fight was to be held the next Wednesday. We got things going Governor Merriam told the sheriff to stop the fight. The sheriff said he would need a thousand men. The governor sent him 1,000 state troops. The fight wasn't held."

"We did the same at Frisco when it was planned to hold the Jeffries-Johnson fight there. The fight was moved to Reno, with sad results to the promoters."

"A moral victory was won when we forced the Johnson Willard fight out of the country. Films of the Havana fight were barred from this country. 'That's why I'm the man who is advertised as having knocked out three fighters—Fitzsimmons, Jeffries and Johnson.'"

"I still have a wallop or two left."

BOOKS BURNED IN HIGH SCHOOL FIRE

Midnight Blaze of Unknown Origin Does Damage in Rear of Auditorium.

Several hundred books were lost and a portion of the bookcases and wood-work at the rear of the high school auditorium was damaged by fire of unknown origin which broke out shortly after midnight Monday. The blaze was confined to the corner where it originated, however, reducing the loss to a minimum.

A young couple strolling by the building on North-st. saw a red glare in the upper windows and turned in an alarm. By the time the fire department arrived the auditorium looked as if it was a mass of flames. The firemen made rapid preparations to cope with a big fire, straining lines of hose in all directions and connecting up their pressure pumps to hydrants.

It was the work of only a few moments with one stream of water to stop the progress of the flames, ending the fear that the building was threatened with destruction. A large number of burned or smoldering books then were thrown out of a window and drenched.

The exact cause of the fire has not been determined, but it is believed to have been due to spontaneous combustion. The building has not been in use for about two weeks. The blaze started among books in the shelves that line the large alcove at the rear of the auditorium. The cases in one corner were partly burned away and the fire had taken hold of the nearby woodwork. Some damage also may have resulted from smoke and water.

LUMBER FREIGHT BEGINS MOVING FROM FAR WEST

The movement of shingles and lumber is beginning to pick up," said L. E. Hoefler of Spokane, Wash. who with his wife is visiting Appleton recently after an absence of four years. "It is about the only kind of freight that is moving," he said.

Mr. Hoefler was born and reared in Appleton and is a son of the late F. W. Hoefler, formerly chief of police. He went west a dozen or more years ago and at present is engaged in yard office work for the Great Northern Railway Co.

Mr. Hoefler says conditions are much worse in Washington than in Wisconsin and that thousands of men are out of work.

"Washington," he said, "promises to have the biggest crop of apples in its history this year providing nothing happens to it."

ASK SUPPORT FOR STATE ROAD FINANCING BILLS

Attention of leading Appleton citizens has been called by the Wisconsin Good Roads association to the necessity of urging local representatives in the legislature to intercede in favor of bill No. 455, which deals with highway financing. With all other road financing legislation sidetracked, it is pointed out that this is the only measure that will make it possible for the state to continue its highway program after 1923. Bills previously passed by the 1919 legislature will carry the work until that time, and new appropriations for continuance of the program must be passed upon.

This state must make appropriations now in order to obtain a sum of $3,500,000 for federal aid in road building. The good roads body is fighting the loss of this sum, and also wants to avoid the resignation of A. R. Hirst, state highway engineer, who refuses to serve longer if funds are not provided for efficient conduct of his department.

Address by the Rev. M. Nomenon, Oshkosh.

"Willkommen Mein Wald" Maennerchor

The People's Forum

Placed in Bad Light

The report of my address at the Grange meeting held at South Green-ville last Saturday which you published recently places me in a false position with respect to certain economic principles. I would therefore request that you print the following explanation:

This report has quoted me as saying that interest paid for money which has been loaned represents unearned incomes and that such incomes should be done away with. I said nothing of the kind, of course. What I did say was that unearned incomes were largely responsible for bad marketing conditions because such incomes were necessarily extracted from the legitimate earnings of actual producers.

I explained that such producers received of course just that much less than they earned and that their purchasing power is correspondingly reduced. This leads up to a situation which no one will deny, namely, that this lower purchasing power cannot be as good as it would be if such producers secured all they earned and had the money to spend for the satisfaction of their wants.

I further stated that a producer, includes every one who produces wealth or renders useful services, and that people who produce wealth which they loan out at interest are performing a service as much as any other useful element in society. I did characterize those who appropriate economic rent to their own use as one element who receive unearned incomes and I spoke of some of our huge industrial monopolies as another source of the same evil. I advised my audience that there was no way of getting fair prices for farmers' produce until such things were stopped. The most perfect marketing system in the world will not help very much so long as society tolerates an element which deprives people of so large a part of their earnings.

I further stated that in my judgment the Division of Markets would be falling far short of performing its duty if it failed of calling people's attention to this all-important and fundamental fact.

Yours truly,
Edward Nordman, Market Director.
